THE AMERICAN ISRAELITE

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

The American Israelite has been since its establishment the voice of liberal Judaism in America. Founded by Isaac M. Wise, the first president and organizer of the Hebrew Union College, the father of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, it has championed heroically and consistently the cause for reform in the Jewish religion. The American Israelite became a fixture in every Reform Jewish home. The late Professor David Neumark once said that the difference between an Orthodox and Reform Jew is that "the Orthodox Jew uses Tefillim (phylacteries) and the Reform Jew reads "the Israelite." If any Jewish weekly at any time achieved the distinction of being of national significance, it was the Israelite. To-day, Reform is established. Its editorial defenders are many. But to those who know the history of Reform, the American Israelite will always occupy a place of pre-eminence.

Recently, Leo Wise, a son of Isaac M. Wise, who has edited the Israelite for many years, turned over to his younger brother, Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, his editorial mantle. Leo Wise has faithfully carried on the traditions of his father, and the rest he now seeks he has well merited. Our best wishes go out to him. We feel that under his successor the Israelite will continue to speak out fearlessly on vital Jewish issues. Reform Judaism needs fearless spokesmen more than ever, not to defend itself against its critics, but to defend itself from its friends. Reform Judaism must not be permitted to deteriorate into a smug complacent orthodoxy. The prophetic fire which animated its pioneers must be restated and redefined. Magnificent temples and flourishing centres alone are not the criteria of the vitality of a faith, but rather the application of its spiritual principles to life. Reform Jews must be stirred up to the implications of the messages of Israel's prophets. Judging by the temper of some of the recent Union conventions, the laity is forgetting the challenges of prophetic Judaism.

The Israelite, under the leadership of Jonah B. Wise, we believe will take up the cudgels for a Judaism, dynamic and aggressive, conscious of its social obligations, which shall not rest satisfied till "the knowledge of the Lord will cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

A PURIM SUGGESTION

The happy memories of Purim have always stimulated the giving of gifts in Jewish circles. To Toronto Jews who are stirred by the season and who are searching for a worthy cause to which they might contribute, we recommend the Volksverein. It is doing good and useful work. It is supported largely by one class, the working class. It merits the support of all classes. Send your Purim contribution to the Volksverein. It will be well spent.

OPOTOSHU

This week-end our Toronto community will have as a guest J. Opotoshu, the brilliant Jewish novelist and short story writer, who will be here to deliver a series of readings and lectures.

Opotoshu is a realist. His gaze is direct and penetrating. It bores through the gossamer of sentimentalism and fixes on the primal mechanism at the base of human conduct. Though his perception searches for the elemental motives, he has a broad sweep that takes in relevant details and masses them in a bas-relief of compelling reality. His subjects are drawn mainly from the Jewish scene, but in his treatment they emerge rather as passionating humans than Jewish theses.

Opotoshu's best known book is the novel "Polish Forests," a powerful tale of Polish life which has been translated into most European languages and has been particularly well received in French literary circles. In his short stories and sketches his movement is swift and bold. He observes a puzzling convolution in a person's psychic or emotional conduct, or he detects a fleeting denouement of a vagrant situation: in a few firm strokes he reconstructs it and we see it sketched in simple, straight lines.

Opotoshu is purely and primarily a literary man. He is not connected with any parties and will not be accorded the acclaim of a partizan ballyho. Those who are interested in literature will be honoured to welcome here the most powerful realist in contemporary Jewish literature.

DR. BENZION MOSSENSOHN

Next week the local Zionists will entertain an old friend in the person of Dr. Benzion Mossensohn, director of the Herzlia gymnasium in Palestine. Undoubtedly Dr. Mossensohn is one of the most remarkable Jewish orators of the time. His eloquence is torrential and withal his presentation is always logical and architectonic. He has not been in Toronto for some ten years. He will find a large following here eager to be fascinated by his cascades of oratory.

A JEWISH SCIENTIST SPEAKS ON SCIENCE AND RELIGION

We quote with pleasure a part of an address on "Science and Religion," by Dr. Solomon Solis-Cohen, one of America's most distinguished physicians and for many years a professor at the Jefferson Medical College. Dr. Solis-Cohen attended Ramsay MacDonald, former British prime minister, when recently the latter was ill in Philadelphia.

"I freely admit that in so far as the knowledge of the present day goes, it seems to be established that man and other living beings are the result of a long process of change and development—in other words of evolution—and did not appear on earth suddenly, fully developed, in their present semblance, as the writer of the sublime creation-poem in Genesis seems to have thought. This, however,

A NON-JEW OFFERS A SUGGESTION

John McMillan, manager of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, in the course of an address before the Brotherhood of Temple Emanu-El, suggested that the Jews of Canada ought to perpetuate the memory of the first Jewish settler in British North America, namely, Aaron Hart. We heartily agree with Mr. McMillan. There ought to be enough Jewish race pride to mark such an historic event in the annals of Canadian history. Now who will do it? What organization will take the lead? A "goy" has made the suggestion and it therefore ought to meet with the approval of all sections and factions of Canadian Jewry!

CHIEF RABBIS

We are of the opinion that there are too many self-styled chief rabbis in Jewry. We sometimes like to call such "cheap rabbis"—for they certainly do cheapen the cause of Judaism in the eyes of the non-Jewish world. The other day the Montreal Gazette carried the following item: "Stated to be the chief rabbi of the Jews and a direct descendent of King Solomon, great Rabbi Mendel Friedman, and his wife from Buhusi, Rumania, left the Windsor Street Station—after a six weeks' visit to this city. Dr. Friedman is the incumbent of a parish that includes the whole of Jewry in all countries - while in this city he has been the centre of much interest, both blessing objects brought to him and in healing the sick in mind and body." We do not doubt that the "Buhuser" is a "guter yid" and does have a following of chassidim. But he is certainly not the chief rabbi of the Jews. Let us have a little more dignity and stop advertising in Gath our so-called chief rabbis. It cheapens the Jewish cause.

WE VENTURE TO ADVISE

We addressed the Young People's Society of the leading Orthodox Shul in Montreal, the Bnai Jacob. And we enjoyed it. We have learned from these young people that the shuls up "North" are still ministered in the Orthodox spirit of East Europe. There is seldom a discourse of the kind that appeals to the spiritual needs and moral wants of the young generation. Many of the new generation have drunk deep at the fountain of modern knowledge; they want a decorous, inspiring, uplifting, intelligible service in the synagogue. But the older generation gives little attention to the spiritual wants of youth. We appeal to the leaders of Jewish life up North not to neglect the Jewish youth. Why not introduce a conservative type of service for the young people? The synagogue needs the Jewish youth. A word to the wise is sufficient. There is a difference between Ghettoism and Judaism. The young people want Judaism but not Ghettoism!

GOOD WILL BETWEEN JEW AND JEW

We congratulate the leaders of the Jewish Reform Movement in New York for arranging a series of public lectures aiming to bring about goodwill between all the groups of American Jews. It's about time to give a clear definition as to the shades of Judaism. And so we read with joy of the following speakers who will address meetings at the Temple Emanu-El, New York, under the auspices of the Hebrew Union College School for Teachers: Rabbi Leo Jung, "What is Orthodox Judaism;" Rabbi Jacob Kohn, "What is Conservative Judaism;" Rabbi Samuel Schulman, "What is Reform Judaism."

Mazel Tov! We do need good will between Jew and Jew. It can only come through education!

THEATRE NIGHT

Women's Auxiliary of Jewish Peretz School is holding a theatre night at the Orpheum, March 12. Mesdames H. M. Caiserman and C. Herman are ticket conveners.

A first edition of William Painter's "The Palace of Pleasure," published in London in 1566-67 and used by Shakespeare and other Elizabethan dramatists as a source for many of their plots, was sold last week at the Anderson Galleries for $8,400 at the auction of the library of S. N. Levy, of New York. The collection of 194 items brought a total of $11,083. The buyer of the rare source book was the Rosenbach Company. A copy of the rare first edition of Christopher Marlowe's "The Famous Tragedy of the Rich Jew of Malta," possibly unique in having its plates uncut, was bought by Barnet J. Beyer for $7,500.

Mr. Lucien Wolf, on behalf of the English Jewish Foreign Committee, addressed a letter to the Rumanian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Titulescu, in which he stressed the point that the punitive measures taken by the Rumanian authorities in relation to the offending students and police officials was inadequate and that more drastic measures will have to be taken by the authorities to root out the evil of anti-semitism. The President of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, Mr. D'Avigdor Goldsmid, declared that the correspondence would be placed in the hands of the British Government with the request that it make friendly representations to the Rumanian Government regarding this matter. Dr. Filderman, the leader of Rumanian Jewry, visited London with a view of consulting with Jewish leaders there regarding the present situation.

A letter to the editor reads: "A cabaret and dance was held at a dance hall last Thursday evening by a Jewish girls' club for the benefit of the younger Toronto Jewry. Among the tasty refreshments served was ice cream followed by meat, that is ham, sandwiches. . . . What are we Jews of the younger generation coming to? Does the Jewish religion and pride, which has survived such gruesome and tyrannical efforts in the past to bring about its downfall, at last show signs of rotting in the youth of to-day? So disgraceful a breach of Jewish etiquette and so disgusting an insult to the Jewish guests should not be overlooked or hidden. After discussing the matter with his parents and other friends the writer learned that Jews, in the first place, are not welcome in the place where the dance was given. And yet after this degradation some Jewish girls' club stoops and literally licks the boots of this establishment to patronize them. This no doubt was the first event of its kind in Toronto and let us hope it will be the last. Let us not forget that we are Jews and enjoy the respect of our parents by abiding in the faith and beliefs of our ancestors as best we can."

So sayeth "A Disgusted Guest," this being the outpouring of an anonymous heart. Also an optimistic heart to believe that here was the first event of its kind in Toronto and to hope that it will be the last. Now this column is no oracle and has few and inadequate answers for many questions, but the answer to: "What are the Jews of the younger generation coming to?" seems to be about the same as the answer to: "What is the older generation coming to?"—in other words: "Anything." The writer of the above letter, however, seems safe in the arms of tradition, the kind of lad that warms the cockles of the hearts of the older generation.

Of this inconsistent older generation the men talk of piety and observances but shave their faces; the women clatter the dishes in separate corners of the kitchen but no longer wear sheitels, and (it is said by Rabbi Goldman, of Cleveland) keep silent about mikveh. And for all that a youth grows up amidst such hypocrisies and is worried about signs of rot in the Jewish religion and pride! In spite of the older generation (what has it come to, anyway?) here is a young man over whom the village fathers may well say, choking with emotion: "Atta boy, atta boy, that's the way to talk" with all the fervor that marks the usual exhortation to "do as I say, not as I do." Thousands of the village fathers and defenders of the faith keep their business places open on Shabbas years after they need to for the sake of income. (Indeed, a rich man who keeps the Sabbath gets more credit for it than a poor one.) And many take Shabbas walks through Eaton's basement up to one o'clock on Saturday and still enjoy the respect of their children who want to "abide in the faiths and beliefs of our ancestors as best we can." What? Yes, yes, Nature is wonderful!

As to the ham sandwiches. Well, they are the logical downfall of a generation that knows not herring. Pickled herring, of course, with onions, allspice, peppercorns and whatever else it takes. One trouble is that there are not enough Litvacks in the world, loyal Litvacks, that is. Why, the various stations along the climb up The Hill are cluttered with chunks of herring dropped, it is hoped, with reluctance but in the interest of elegance and perhaps deportment by persons victimized by a false idea of what etiquette and swellness are. There is nothing commendable about sneaking the herring from under the ice-box between the hour that the children go to the dance and the hour they return. Besides it robs them of something that comes under the category of education and joy in living. Of course, with herring is included schmetine and cheese blintzes and other tit-bits that keep the stomach Jewish when the mind has wandered away.

A boy reared in some proximity to tzibele kuchen or rye bread still warm from the oven and sending forth the fragrance that inspires poets to gabble of ambrosia, will be harder to wean away from Judaism than a boy without these potent moorings. For it is foolish to expect the same results from anchovy paste as from the sterner, more succulent food hereinbefore extolled. And a girl brought up in a culinary atmosphere, the bare recollection of which makes the eyes to roll and the mouth to water, does not need to rely upon whatever it is that a ham sandwich has. She could shock her guests almost as easily with the obsolete herring and be-called unique and original at the same time by serving the dish out in the open where it belongs. Moreover, as a club member hostess she would be remembering that her guests were Jews and that while herring is fish and goes with ice cream, ham is meat and doesn't.

Social Life in 1904— Do You Remember?—

In Sherbrooke, Quebec, Miss Leah Vineberg was united in marriage to Joseph Rosenbloom. Her uncle, J. L. Vineberg, gave her away. She wore white silk crepoline over taffeta with veil and wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses. The maid of honour, Miss Nellie Vineberg, and the bridesmaids, Misses Sadie Vineberg and Malca Vineberg, wore white silk crepe de chine, carrying bouquets of pink carnations. Eli W. Jacobs was best man. Rabbi Abramowitz, of Montreal, performed the ceremony. The young couple went on a trip through the States. Present were: Dr. Archibald Vineberg, of Albany; Charles Vineberg, of Cohoes; Mrs. Rubinsky, of Chicago; Miss Malca Cousman, of New York; Mrs. Goldstein and Mrs. Phillips, of Cornwall; Mrs. William Jacobs, Eli W. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Vineberg, Miss Sadie Vineberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Vineberg, the Misses Libbie and Malca Vineberg, Mrs. C. S. Vineberg, Mr. and Mrs. I. Vineberg, Miss Annie Vineberg, Sol Vineberg, Miss Elca Cousman, Mr. and Mrs. S. Fels, Mrs. I. Kert, Mr. and Mrs. J. Friedman and M. and A. Freedman, of Montreal. M. Bernstein left on a business trip to Western Ontario. A. L. Friedman was in the Northwest. I. Kallmyer, of Toronto, was in town. Miss Olga Strauss was in town from Toronto. Miss Leah Levinson, of Bradford, Pa., visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Levinson, Ontario Street. The engagement was announced of Miss Cita Cairo, of London, England, to Dr. Aaron Levy, eldest son of Hiram Levy, of Montreal. The engagement was announced of Miss Hannah Berliner, daughter of E. Berliner, of Washington, D.C., to Joseph Saunders, of Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Harris Vineberg received in honour of the engagement of their daughter, Libbie. Mrs. Joseph L. Adelstein died at the age of 22 years. At a meeting of Young People's Society of Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue Miss Sadie Vineberg read a paper on "The Jew as a Patriot." Miss Simon sang. Dr. David A. Hart spoke on "The Jewish Dietary Laws from a Medical Standpoint." Miss Rosalind Lewis recited. Lyon Cohen gave the vote of thanks, seconded by E. W. Jacobs.

$50,000 PRIZE COMPETITION

More than 1,044,000 letters were received in the $50,000 Cash Prize competition conducted by the Laundry-owners of the United States and Canada, according to the information received here to-day by Mr. Henning, of the Toronto Wet Wash Laundry Company, who co-operated in promoting the competition. The subject was: "Why The Laundry Should Do My Washing." Letters enough to fill a railroad box car of standard size full to the roof, with a good-sized shipment left over, poured into the contest headquarters at Indianapolis, Indiana, officials in charge have informed Mr. Henning. The contest has proved by all odds the greatest attention-getter in the history of business and advertising. The largest returns in any previous contest had run around 750,000 entries. In a single day's mail, between 100,000 and 125,000 letters were received, according to Mr. Henning's information. Six hundred registered letters came in on a single delivery and with them was a large number of entries sent by special delivery. A floor space of nearly 4,000 square feet was used to handle the contest. A force of 25 men and girls was kept at work constantly on the details of receiving, sorting and culling letters.

The contest officially opened on October 1st and letters began to come in immediately after that date. During the last month they came by the tens and hundreds of thousands. Entries came from nearly every country on the globe. Among those most heavily represented were the following: England, China, Philippine Isles, Honduras, Sweden, Mexico, New Zealand, Alaska, Hawaiian Isles, Guatemala, Haiti, Canal Zone, Germany, France, Egypt, Isle of Cyprus, British West Indies, Danish West Indies, Venezuela, Switzerland, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, Scotland and Ireland. There was a goodly number of letters in foreign languages. Most heavily represented was French, due to the large number of French Canadians who entered the competition. The million letters are now being passed on by the judges, who will award the $50,000 in cash and decide the winners of the 12,000 other prizes. "This will require some considerable time," Mr. Henning said, "according to information I have received from the competition officials." It is expected that two months or so will yet be required to complete all the many details of the judging and prepare for the announcement of the winners. Three laundry-owners have been appointed from each of the 48 States, the District of Columbia and the Dominion of Canada to act as judges of the letters submitted in their respective groups. They will choose the winners of the 10 cash prizes and the 240 other awards in their respective groups.

The cash prizes in each state, the District and the Dominion are:

First Prize, $225; Second Prize, $125; Third, $100; Fourth, $50.00; Fifth, $35.00; Sixth, $25; Seventh, $20.00; Eighth, $10.00; Ninth, $5.00; Tenth, $5.00.

After the 250 winners in each of the 50 groups have been selected, the national judges will choose from among them the 10 national winners. The National Prizes are: First, $10,000; Second, $5,000; Third, $2,000; Fourth, $1,250; Fifth, $1,000; Sixth, $700; Seventh, $500; Ninth, $250; Tenth, $100.

No announcement of winners will be made until after the national judging has been completed, when state and national winners will be announced at the same time.

LOCUST PLAGUE FEARED IN PALESTINE

The Agricultural Department of the Palestine Government is taking all necessary precautions against the eventuality of a locust plague attacking the country. The locusts have invaded Egypt and the Soudan district and it is apprehended that they may come to Palestine. Only a few years ago, the Jewish colonists in Palestine had to struggle against the invasion of this pest, which constitutes one of the great menaces in Palestine. Even in Biblical times, the locust plague was greatly feared and regarded as a most formidable scourge. It is hoped, that with the modern facilities and with the precautionary measures now taken, it will be possible to minimize the ravages of this pest.

THAT'S the amazing thing about the New Series Pontiac Six! It is completely new in style. Its power has been greatly increased. Its luxury, safety, handling ease and convenience have been immeasurably enhanced. Yet it offers the same wonderful dependability and six-cylinder smoothness so largely responsible for Pontiac's success in the past.

If you haven't seen the New Series Pontiac Six you haven't seen the low-priced Six that actually challenges the world's finest cars as a style leader! If you haven't studied all the new features it offers at no increase in price—you have no idea how vastly the buying power of your dollar has been increased!

Look at the list of features. That tells you only part of the story! Come in—and your eyes will tell you the rest!

KIRKLAND LAKE

Little attention should be paid to the recent and rather contradictory advertisements which appeared in the press concerning Kirkland Lake. I am inclined to agree with the sponsor, on one point at least, in which he states he was misinformed. I would qualify that statement with the word "badly."

Kirkland Lake annual meeting will be held this month. Mr. J. B. Tyrrell will then take the opportunity to present shareholders with figures and facts concerning recent developments on the 2,600 and 2,725 foot levels. Don't allow yourself to be stampeded. Conditions on this property were never as promising as at the present time.

Read the facts for yourself as published in The Northern Miner of March 1st.

"If it could—but it can't"

If laundry could be done any better or more cheaply at home, it would perhaps pay a housewife for the extra effort—but it can't—since this laundry has revolutionized the family wash problem in Toronto. And, furthermore, our regularity of service and scientific certainty of methods cannot be duplicated in any home. And—still further—you have five different kinds of service from which to choose, each one taking the wash one step nearer to completion. Prices are extremely reasonable. We have several young ladies waiting to explain our laundry service to you on the phone. Call to-day.

An Ironing Secret

The secret of successfully ironing dainty, frilly garments is in the iron itself. Ask anyone who uses a Westinghouse Electric Iron. It makes light work of ironing because it is exactly balanced—because the large ironing surface distributes heat evenly—because the gracefully tapered point reaches every corner with ease—because the handle keeps cool, and is restful to wrist and forearm.

The nearest electrical dealer will show you this Iron. Handle it. You'll realize how different—and better—it is.

ELECTRIC IRON

MADE IN CANADA

What Float-Ironed Service Does

WASHES EVERYTHING—thoroughly, in 10 different soft waters.

IRONS THE FLAT WORK COMPLETELY—wearing apparel will need a little touching up.

THAT'S FLOAT-IRONED—the cheapest partially finished service, requiring the least amount of ironing at home.

Taplin Natural Tread Shoes

Burning feet are usually caused by restricted circulation, which in turn is caused by tight shoes.

Taplin Natural Treads are worn out in comfort. They are never thrown away.

Like the human foot, the proper shoe has a flexible arch and should not require breaking in.

All cases of soreness and tenderness are results of ill-fitting shoes and can be successfully cared for by us with our many widths and sizes of Natural Tread Shoes—we remove the pressure.

MISS LANGNER MARRIES RABBI ON STREET OUTSIDE SYNAGOGUE

The wedding of Miss Pearl Langner, daughter of Rabbi Langner of Zion Synagogue, took place in front of the synagogue. Miss Langner was married to Rabbi Jehohanan Twersky, of Brooklyn, N.Y. The ceremony began at Cecil and Huron Streets, where the elders gathered with forty visiting rabbis. They offered the betrothal prayers and drank to the health of the couple. Long before four o'clock, the hour set for the ceremony, Zion Synagogue was crowded and others were struggling to get in. Then the announcement was made the ceremony would take place outside. The wedding canopy was supported on poles held by four elders just at the foot of the steps to the edifice.

"Music! music!" came the call from the crowd, and a string orchestra, with drum accompaniment, broke into the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, in very fast time.

The groom and his party were approaching on foot down the middle of Cecil Street. The young rabbi was accompanied by his father and his older brother, also a rabbi. Each wore a tallis, as part of his costume. On his head each wore a hat of sable fur with a brim standing out some four inches from the face, and with black velvet crown. Rabbinical locks curled over the ears of each.

By this time the street was a swaying throng through which the groom, led by his elder brother, in conformity with ritual, hardly could make his way.

"Make way for the bride! Make way for the bride!" called a master of ceremonies on the outskirts of the crowd, using Jewish and English impartially. Miss Langner, accompanied by her mother and sister and Miss Betty Twersky, of Brooklyn, sister of the groom, as maid of honour, left the automobile and were joined by Rabbi Langner. As they made their way the crowd closed in behind them so closely it was difficult to tell the wedding party and guests from the noisy but interested and friendly spectators.

Miss Langner was gowned in white net worn over satin and decorated with sequins. She wore a coat of grey lamb fur with trimmings of platinum fox. This was not removed during the ceremony. She didn't carry any flowers. In compliance with tradition she wore the sheitel or wig of the married woman and over this a white silk scarf.

Rabbi David Lifert, of New York, opened the ceremony with intoned prayer, followed by the ceremonial libations. Rabbi Weinreb, of Toronto, took up the intoned prayer, and was followed by Rabbi Flam, of Montreal, in a series of sentences to which the congregation gave deep-voiced responses. Again the officials drank to the health of the couple, and the groom, dropping a small glass at his feet, stamped it into pieces. This completed this part of the ceremony.

Surrounded by the throng, the bridal party, with the groom still walking with his family and the bride with hers, made its way back between the thickly parked cars in Cecil Street to Rabbi Langner's home. There was much good-natured jostling and several times the bride was nearly swept off her feet. Rabbi Max Langner, of Philadelphia, brother of the bride, led the crowd in a song of rejoicing that held all the unusual and picturesque cadences of traditional Jewish music.

Owing to the nearness of the hour of the beginning of the Sabbath for the Jewish community, the ceremonies were halted. In both the Bay Street and Spadina Avenue synagogues special references were made to the ceremony. The wedding reception took place at the former synagogue when the wedding cake was cut and distributed to the friends of the families. A banquet and dance took place at Rabbi Langner's home.

Monday night the ceremonies were closed with another celebration in the Bellevue Avenue synagogue.

Rabbi Twersky and his bride will live in New York.

AARON SAPIRO TO SPEAK HERE

Aaron Sapiro, who sued Henry Ford for libel in the "Dearborn Independent," and who is a leader in the co-operative movement in the United States, will speak at Massey Hall, March 27. In many States of the Union and several provinces in Canada he has organized the farmer who now sells his grain through a co-operative basis, and gets more than he did in previous years, when he was forced to sell to the mediator at any price. Mr. Sapiro has devoted all his legal experience and ability in organizing the Farmer Co-operatives. One of his latest enterprises is his attempt to organize the smaller movie distributors and show houses.

PICTON EDITOR WRITES ON EXCHANGE OF PULPITS

The following editorial "The Brotherhood of Man," appeared recently in the "Picton Gazette":

"A most significant thing happened in Toronto a few days ago. The pastor of Carlton Street United Church and the Rabbi of the Holy Blossom Jewish Synagogue exchanged pulpits. This occurred Sunday, February 5. In welcoming Rev. Ernest Crossley Hunter to his pulpit at the morning service Rabbi Isserman, in an eloquent address expressing a wonderful breadth of thought and sympathy, said that to some the thought of such an interchange of pulpits would come as a shock. But he said, 'to me the thing to be regretted is not that such an occurrence is happening, but that it had not happened before.' The Jew and the Christian had very much in common. The Old Testament was their common heritage and their common purpose was the good and uplift of humanity. The rabbi paid a touching tribute to the work of the well-known evangelists, Revs. Crossley and Hunter.

"At the synagogue the preacher was Rev. Hunter, who talked to a crowded congregation and at Carlton Street United Church the church was filled to capacity and a thousand people turned away who wanted to hear Rabbi Isserman. In his sermon at the Synagogue Rev. Hunter said that the rabbi had called him up during the week to say that he wanted Mr. Hunter to feel perfectly free to express himself as he would like to in his sermon. Surely no greater evidence of broadmindedness could be imagined.

"Canada has again led the way. In this land of freedom and vastness there is no room for the religious prejudices that have survived for two thousand years under other environments. There is something about the spirit of Canadians that has no place for such things. Religious intolerance has ever been a blot and a reproach. Some of history's greatest crimes have been committed in the name of religion, the work of the fanatic and zealot. As Canadians we should rejoice that our country is leading the world in the spirit of religious liberty and brotherhood."

When Edmund Scheuer wrote to the editor of the "Picton Gazette" in praise of the article he received the following letter in reply:

Dear Sir,—

Allow me to thank you for your kindly reference to this article. It was my very great privilege one Sunday morning, a few weeks ago, while confined to my house with a bad cold, to hear over the radio the service which I referred to in this article. I do not know when I have enjoyed anything quite so much. The address of welcome by Rabbi Isserman to Rev. Hunter was one of the finest things which has ever been my privilege to hear. I felt like writing him and asking him to send me a copy of his address. But knowing something of the many calls on the time of such busy men as the rabbi, I felt that this would be too much to ask.

The next morning I sat down and wrote the editorial which you have referred to so kindly. If this editorial will in any way help to bring about a greater spirit of religious tolerance I am content. This is, I hope and believe an expression of the best sentiment of Canadian citizenship.

I would be very glad to have copies of any papers in which it is reproduced in English. Unfortunately I could not read this in any other language.

Yours very sincerely,

A. E. CALNAN,

President and manager, of the "Picton Gazette."

Editor, CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

There has been quite a lot of criticism about changing the Prayer Book. By doing so more harm would be done than good, bad feeling in the religious world would be created, and it would not help the advancement of humanity. In the Bible, one of the finest commandments is: Six days shalt thou labour and the seventh day rest and keep it as the Sabbath. It would be one of the best things, for the advancement of civilization, if rabbis and Christian ministers would get together and try to do something to observe that commandment—by making five working days a week, one day for recreation and the seventh day to keep the Sabbath the way God commanded it to be kept. That would only be a half day loss to the worker. It could easily be made up by working a half hour or so a day longer. The Sabbath is of tremendous value to all of us, Jew or Christian. I hope religious ministers will find a way to foster some kind of a conference and see what can be done for the advancement of humanity in this practical way. I am sure that it would create a greater unity among all classes and make this a better world to live in.

Sincerely yours,

J. MORRIS.

One of the most lavishly produced out-of-doors pictures filmed in many years is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Rose Marie," which is coming to Loew's next week. The picture will be quite as lavishly presented on the screen here and will be shown to the full musical score of the sensationally successful musical play from which it was adapted to the screen. Joan Crawford has the title role and James Murray the leading male romantic role.

On the stage Leona La Mar, the world's greatest thought reader will head the bill in a most remarkable demonstration of her rare powers. She will tell freely what she sees, and will answer questions at every performance.

Bob Nelson, popular musical comedy star, will be a prominent feature of the bill in new snappy songs.

Rabbi Isserman's Editorial

does not detract from the sublimity of the poem, nor from the worth of the lessons it has been the means of teaching. Fortunately Judaism has no dogma that depends upon the literal accuracy of this poem or of the Eden story. Both might be cancelled and Judaism be untroubled thereby. But apart from that the rightness or wrongness of any evolution theory does not affect the essence of religion as we have defined it. The author of the creation poem was not writing a scientific textbook. Had any one attempted to do that in the accepted terms of the science of any period in the past, it would have been obsolete for the next period, and if written in the terms of to-day's science, it would be obsolete in the next century; perhaps sooner. The streams of luminour particles, the waves of luminiferous ether, the other figments of mathematical physics may come and go—nothing can equal the sublimity of "God said, let light be—and light was." And nothing can express so well the essential and eternal truth. Nor, according to Judaism, did God abandon the world he had created to the operation of mechanical laws. In the morning prayers it is proclaimed that "In His mercy, He reneweth, every day, continuously, the works of creation." The continuous renewal of creative impulse—this is the mystery science cannot penetrate; the "why" that eludes all its searching, but is clear to the intuition of religion. But although it is not part of the function of science to penetrate the mystery of creation, the greatest minds of science—like Michael Faraday, for example—must freely admit that their studies have only increased their reverence for the Creator as revealed in this work.

"And as to the course of man's development, the lesson of Genesis is this: 'That whatever that evolution may have been as to his physical frame, there finally entered into his composition the soul in the image of God.' It is this soul that, in the words of Judah Halevi, 'recognizing itself, becomes able to know God.'

"That is man's supreme endowment; and because of it human beings can never be satisfied with the mere triumphs of the intellect in arts and sciences; but must seek communion with the Eternal Source of Light and Life in the devotions of religion."

RUMANIAN GOVERNMENT ACCUSED OF COMPLICITY IN RIOTS

The activity of the Rumanian authorities in punishing the students guilty of the riots in Transylvania apparently aroused the ire of the anti-Semitic students throughout the country and persistent demands have been made by them to release those arrested or serving terms in prison. In a recent issue of the "Cuvintul," the organ of the Christian Students' Association, the students are urged to intervene in behalf of their colleagues some of whom have gone on a hunger strike in prison, so that the "Jews may not rejoice and scoff at Rumanian students." The same journal prints a most sensational article which threatens the Government authorities of revelations which would place them in a most lurid light in the eyes of the world. It says rather plainly that the Government supported the demonstration at Oradea-mare and that it had made sweeping promises to the leaders of the student party which were not kept. It was only after the conscience of the world was aroused by the disorders and the consequent injuries to life and property that the Government tried to wash its hands clear of the whole affair and to appear before the world as an innocent party in the affair. The article further threatens the authorities that unless the punitive measures taken against the rioters are removed, the students are prepared to make public the negotiations that were entered into between them and the Government authorities.

The Bucarest correspondent of the London Jewish Chronicle relates of an interview which he had with a Jewish member of the Rumanian Parliament, who said that there was no anti-semitic Deputy in the present Rumanian Parliament and that everything looked most promising until the riots of the Christian Students' Association. "The Rumanian people as a whole are certainly not anti-semitic," he said. "It is only the students who have created this anti-Jewish feeling. Therefore I would strongly advise the Jews in this country (England), who are naturally indignant at what has happened in Rumania, not to hold protest meetings. Such meetings will do more harm than good, and might turn the Rumanian people against the Jews. If the Government had not made reparations for the damage caused by the student ruffians, or had not shown any inclination to punish the offenders, it would, of course, have been a different matter. But this, as you know, is not the case." He further declared that about 250 students had already been excluded from the universities for a period of twelve months and that 500 more names are on the lists of the police officials who would be excluded later on. The Government had already paid in reparations about $125,000, and that the entire sum to be expended for that purpose will exceed $600,000. The Deputy was most emphatic about the harm that might come to the Rumanian Jews from the vociferous mass meetings that are planned to be held in various places or that have been held to protest against the atrocities.

The editor of a student newspaper at Clausenberg sent an offer to the Jewish community that the stolen scrolls would be returned to them on the payment of 60,000 lei. The Jews refused to pay the sum and handed the information over to the police authorities, with the result that the writer of the note and two others were placed under arrest and the scrolls were returned to the community.

Henri Torres, the attorney who defended Schwarzbard in the trial for the murder of Petlura, presided at a protest meeting against the Rumanian atrocities at a well-attended meeting which was held in Paris, and which was addressed by a number of prominent speakers.

Toronto upholds the affirmative. The speakers are Samuel Ciglen, second year student at Osgoode Hall and in his second year as president of the University of Toronto Menorah; and David Siegel, a student in second years Arts at University College.
